REVIEW OF COMPANY

ADJUTANT POWELL INSPECTS AND APPROVES GLENDALE COMPANY OF VOLUNTEERS

Adjutant H. Laurence Powell of Los Angeles, accompanied by his aide, Assemblyman Harry A. Wishard, paid a visit of inspection to the Glendale Company of Volunteers, Wednesday night. There was a fair attendance but unfortunately Captain Johnson was absent through indisposition. In his absence Lieutenant Nicolas took charge of the company.

The men were put through the ordinary squad and company drill and also the skirmish drill, in all of which they acquitted themselves to the satisfaction of the inspecting officer. It was announced that the delay in the equipment and other details necessary for the thorough establishment of the regiment on a proper footing was to be attributed to the fact that the adjutant-general had been called to the border to attend to matters of importance in connection with the militia there and also to the fact that the pressing nature of political engagements had prevented Governor Johnson from giving the matter his attention.

These conditions will shortly be changed and it may be expected that the regiment will shortly receive its equipment.

Assemblyman Harry A. Wishard, who recently returned from the training camp for officers at Monterey, gave an interesting account of the work done there. He said that among the 1300 volunteers under training there was a large proportion who had had military training or experience in actual warfare. There were also 500 regulars, the Coast artillery, who formed an interesting part of the camp.

Mr. Wishard said that the benefits of the training were incalculable and one of the good results of it was that sent out all over the State men imbued with the spirit of preparedness. These men had now become apostles of the doctrine that the country must be ready to defend itself. He told of some of the features of the instruction and said that the digging of modern trenches was thoroughly imparted and that the men constructed trenches similar to those now used in warfare in Europe and that in those trenches it had been possible to live and to conduct life just as above ground. There was even a Y. M. C. A. in the trenches.

Another feature of the work was the instruction in pontoon bridge building. The men became so expert in this that they were able to construct a fully-equipped bridge for the passage of horse, foot and artillery in 39 minutes. This beat even the regular record. Mr. Wishard explained the strict discipline of the camp and the value of the many hours of daily drill and advised all who could get the opportunity of attending such a camp to go.

The company will meet Wednesday, next week, as usual for drill, at the drill hall, corner of First and Glendale avenue, at 8 p. m. sharp.

WOMAN'S READING CIRCLE

The Mutual Benefit Reading Circle are at present deeply interested in the reading of "The Dawn of Character." They find this work to be deeply scientific, yet so profusely illustrated with incident that every point is made crystal clear. Mrs. Mumford so admirably gives suggestions as to treatment of the numerous defects peculiar to children in general that she proves herself very helpful and encouraging. "The Contents of the Child's Mind," and "The Growth of Imagination" were the essays read and discussed at the meeting Wednesday.

Twenty-seven women attended the circle meeting, with a new member enrolling, Mrs. C. J. Hanson of Burgett St. The following were visitors: Mrs. A. L. Casey of Colton, Mrs. J. H. Foltz, Mrs. Thomas Saeger, Mrs. H. P. Spencer of Merced and Miss Simpkins of Huntington Park.

LEAGUERS CONDUCT SERVICE

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. B. Dudley Snudden who is on his vacation the prayer meeting at the First Methodist church was conducted by the members of the Epworth League, Wednesday evening. Herbert A. Matthiesen, the president of the League presided and was assisted by first vice president, Miss Eva Beckman. Members of the League took a prominent part in the service. The subject for the lesson of the evening was the crippled wrestler's victory, Gen. 32. The theme was that we can go to God in time of need and receive a blessing. The service was full of inspiration and uplift for all present.

WORK ON STREETS

VARIOUS ITEMS OF CONSTRUCTION AND IMPROVEMENT BEING PUSHED AHEAD

While street work has not been an outstanding feature of the month of August, there is always some going on. Considerable interest is being taken in the work that is being done on Third street, where the Glendale-Montrose railway is making over the road into a broad gauge line for the purpose of bringing its cars down town to Broadway. This work is being pushed ahead but there is a great deal to do before the new ties can be put in and the work of broadening the track undertaken.

On Pacific avenue the city gang of workmen has been busy for some time past and that avenue from Broadway to S. Colorado has had the sidewalks and curbs completed so that they can be used. The grading is 40 per cent completed.

The work that is to be done on Glendale avenue from First to Verdugo road is held back at present on account of the necessity of waiting the legal time before the contracts can be signed. When this has been done the work will begin and will be pushed to completion as rapidly as is consistent with good work.

Maps and descriptions of the properties to be taken for the opening and widening of Sycamore Canyon road are being prepared by the city engineer and it is expected that action will be brought in court not later than Aug. 24.

The city is expecting to receive bids on Tuesday, Aug. 22, for the completion of the paving of the south end of Canada boulevard. That will give a boulevard from Verdugo road right up through the Glendale Heights tract. The city is also at work on the computing of assessments in the usual routine.

GLENDALE MUNICIPAL BAND

Glendale Municipal Band will give its usual weekly concert, Friday evening, Aug. 18, at Broadway and Brand boulevard, at 8 o'clock. This will be the tenth concert of the season. These concerts have been growing in interest from week to week. C. D. Furst, the manager of the organization, has been working hard to make it a success, and F. E. Thorpe, the director, has managed to make a most effective combination of the varied talents of the members of the band. The program for Friday night should attract a large audience. It will be of a thoroughly modern cast, including popular pieces from Sousa and Von Suppe.

PROGRAM

KALEM FILM COMPANY

These are busy days at the Kalem Picture company's studio on Verdugo Road. The railway company is hard at work on the erection of a two-story frame building that is to be a feature in one of their productions entitled "Election's Peril." This building will be burned down in the course of the production of this film. The regular company is still working on "The Girl from Frisco." The eighth episode of the series is now under production. It is entitled "The Battle in the Dark," and deals with the fake Hindoo mystics.

Miss Kirkby, who has been playing leading parts in "The Girl From Frisco," leaves this week for New York, whence she will go to Jacksonville, Florida, to take leading parts with the Jacksonville Kalem company.

MOTORCYCLES CLASH

As Tom Furst of the White Store was riding his motorcycle along Lomita avenue, Wednesday, and just taking the turn into Central avenue he was run into by George Fafaki, a Japanese, who was riding another motorcycle. The Japanese was on the wrong side of the road. His machine crashed into Furst's with great violence. Both machines were badly smashed and the Jap himself was also severely cut and superficially bruised. Tom Furst sustained various bruises and abrasions of the skin; but is able to be at the store.

TEUTON ATTEMPTS TO REGAIN LOST POSITIONS RESULT IN FAILURE AND LOSS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, Aug. 17.—The Germans organized a desperate attack on the positions taken from them, north and south of the Somme. The fighting was particularly fierce around the village of Maurepas. The French had consolidated the positions won and the Germans beat themselves to pieces against the same fortifications which the French had carried in an irresistible dash a few hours before. After beating back the Germans the French went forward again for further gains.

GLENDALE ENTERPRISE

PIGEON LOFTS ON VERDUGO ROAD THIRD LARGEST IN UNITED STATES

One of the great institutions of Glendale and the third largest of its kind in the United States is the Glendale Pigeon Lofts, located at 650 South Verdugo Road. This plant comprises 9,000 birds and is attracting the attention of pigeon fanciers from all parts of the world. The industry has been in operation here for several years and each succeeding year gives it a more firm footing as a substantial commercial enterprise. The management has set apart Saturday afternoon from 1 to 5 p. m. to receive visitors. The feeding time is 3 o'clock in the afternoon and people who have visited these lofts say it is well worth anyone's time to witness the feeding of so many birds at one time. For the accommodation of people of this community who are busy during the work days of the week the lofts will be open to visitors on Sunday from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.

It is not uncommon to hear people on the street corners discussing the need of the establishing of worthy industries within the Glendale community. While they are pleading that such industries locate in Glendale they are probably not aware of this great industry which is shipping out its product at the very highest market price. It is expected that many hundreds of Glendale people will take advantage of the opportunity to visit the pigeon lofts Saturday afternoon and Sunday forenoon. It is truly one of Glendale's worthy enterprises.

IN TAXPAYERS' INTEREST

Mr. Charles H. Toll has returned from San Francisco, where he went last week to attend the initial meetings of the Executive Board of Taxpayers' Association of California. This is an association formed for the purpose of conserving the interests of the taxpayers by attempting to increase the efficiency of the various branches of administrative work, and at the same time "stopping the leaks." The same idea has been very successfully carried out in other states, and with the expert director that has been employed and with the Executive Board composed as it is of men experienced in the financial world, it hopes to prove of value here. Besides Mr. Toll, the other members of the Executive Board coming from Los Angeles County are, J. Ross Clark and Mr. John Mitchell, President of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

PERMITS TO DATE

AUGUST SHOWS THUS FAR IMPROVEMENT OVER SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR

August has never been remarkable for the activity of its building record. The month is usually one of the slackest of the year, inasmuch as a great many people have taken a vacation and every week ends sees some auto party to the mountains or to the beaches. The building for the month, however, shows considerable increase over the same period last year.

August, 1915, up to date, had only four permits and their total value was only $2575. In 1914 there were 9 during the same period with a total value of $6400. This year the same period shows 9 permits with a total value of $6055.

Following are the permits:

Messrs. Kent & Son have a contract for the construction of a bridge addition to Glendale High School, Fifth and Louise, at a cost of $1250.

Spencer Robinson is building for himself a roof on a building at 406 Glendale avenue, at a cost of $125.

H. S. Collinson is building a garage, at 319 W. Third street, at a cost of $75.

H. W. Yarick is building an addition to a dwelling, at 1447 W. Third street, at a cost of $2000.

R. B. Hammond, 208 N. Isabel street, is erecting a dwelling house at a cost of $2000.

Salo Desky has employed A. Anderson to build an addition to a dwelling house, at 1511 W. Second street, at a cost of $100.

C. W. Brett is removing and remodeling a building at 431 E. Second street. The cost is $250.

Bertha Campbell is building an addition to a dwelling at 22 S. Louise street, at a cost of $250.

B. R. Berry is building a shed at Kenwood street, at a cost of $35.

CHECKING WASTE ON FARMS

That a billion dollars is wasted in the marketing of farm products is asserted by the national authorities on that subject. A conference on marketing and farm credits will shortly be held in Chicago. There farmers of all states are expected to unite in a discussion of ways and means to remedy a condition termed wasteful and iniquitous in the extreme by the committee in its meeting notice. It is charged that the American farmer is exceedingly careless in his methods of marketing his products and that the loss in livestock, eggs, and fruit is enough to bridge the channel between prosperity and bankruptcy.

It is intended to make surveys just before the winter gathering that will show the movement of crops such as livestock, grain and hay. The whole milk problem and its relation to city distribution will be worked out. Practical plans will be drawn for eliminating waste, improving farm products and increasing the consumption of certain farm crops.

Half of the conference work will be devoted to rural credits and the federal farm loan act will come in for a searching criticism. The leaders of the conference are persuaded that the American farmer is more thrifless than his rivals in Europe, where with the handicap of a very inferior climate the utmost value is obtained from the soil and every method of intensive cultivation is pursued.

There is no doubt that the United States is taking a right step by inaugurating a system of rural credits. The farmers need aid to get machinery, and to move their crops without being held up at the point of a mortgage, and ultimately losing their farms. The object of the rural credits system is to perpetuate the order of small farmers and to help them to make themselves prosperous.

The new act has many limitations and some defects. Exactly how it will work is not yet properly known. The experts of the National conference on Marketing and Farm Credits are now at work on it and when they have completed their examination they will be able to tell the American farmer what to expect under its terms.

This act does not by any means solve the rural credit problem. It is a beginning and a very crude beginning of a solution. It will be many years before the full problem will be solved. It may also prove inoperative in a number of states where federal jurisdiction will clash with existing homestead laws. The act does not touch even remotely the question of personal credit and it is a long way from striking at the great problem of turning tenants and landless men into home-owning farmers.

These questions are likely to receive some kind of solution at the coming conference. The best minds in the country are at work on them and ways and means of saving the annual waste in farm produce will be devised and made known while the problem of harmonizing the State laws with the Rural Credits act will be attacked in a satisfactory manner.

The United States has to devise means of aiding the immigrant and placing him on the farms. It has to devise means of getting the surplus city population out to the country and just how these and other problems of interest to cultivators are to be solved to best advantage will be discussed at Chicago by experts from every State in the Union and also from Canada.

CIRCLES THAT WIDEN

In the days when Pollock wrote his "Course of Time," with its lugubrious pictures of yawning graves and rows of tombstones, lives cut short and days of judgment, it was fashionable to talk mournfully of life and to bewail the fact that the circle of one's friends gradually gets smaller and smaller. "I feel," writes Dean Close, "as though I were standing in the midst of a solemn circle of graves, the graves of our friends. Every year the circle widens and increases until it seems that every thought and memory here is linked with the tomb."

That kind of sentiment was very popular at one time. People, however, begin to see that life is linked with higher life not with death and the wise feel that their lives are every day becoming part of a joyous circle of those who are living. Indeed it is well anyway if one desires to have a life that is full of life to extend the circle of our acquaintanceship. It is possible in this way to be joined in activity with the youthful and progressive and not to feel that one is shut out from the activities and joys of the coming era.

One of the worst features of any small city is that it gets divided up into cliques. That certain people form certain friendships and never get out of them. The same people go to the same stereotyped parties every year. The same set take the same autos and go to the same beach or the same mountain and so go on stamping an unvarying attitude toward life on themselves. Outside of their little circle they see nothing, feel nothing, care for nothing.

It is certain that the world loses a great deal by this course of life. Life is hard to live, it is true; but it is a thing to be bravely faced and lived in an unselfish manner. It is good to change one's point of view and to bestow some of one's superabundant vitality or superabundant means on those who would benefit by those gifts. "The little more and how much it is; the little less and how great the want." It would not take a great deal of the means that is often spent without much benefit to give just the standpoint necessary to some one to rise to higher things.

Thinking individuals, even in the midst of their round of ordinary social activities, feel that it is their duty to make new friends, to widen and increase the circle of their acquaintance and to look on the ever-flowing stream of human life with something more than a mere flippant interest or a sarcastic comment. In that ever-flowing flood of humanity there is certain to be someone who might benefit by your acquaintance or whose acquaintanceship might benefit you.

But the average individual keeps in his little millround of personal acquaintance and as the years go on if he or she lives, becomes lonelier and more lonely. It is necessary for the full enjoyment ment of life that one keep in touch with the present day. There is no standing still in life. If one stands still the simile of the "solemn circle of graves" soon becomes a reality. The dead must live with the dead; the living have no place for them.

By keeping in touch with human life as it develops and expands;

by sympathizing with its activities and with its changes; by adopting its point of view, one keeps young and feels young and is young.

Such a soul is "like a fountain playing, flinging its bright fresh feelings up to the skies it loves and longs to reach."

Mrs. Heald was a visitor for a day last week. She came up from the city where she, with her children, has been living for several months and where she expects to remain for some time. We are sorry to lose this family.

ment of life that one keep in touch with the present day. There is no standing still in life. If one stands still the simile of the "solemn circle of graves" soon becomes a reality. The dead must live with the dead; the living have no place for them.

By keeping in touch with human life as it develops and expands;

by sympathizing with its activities and with its changes; by adopting its point of view, one keeps young and feels young and is young.

Such a soul is "like a fountain playing, flinging its bright fresh feelings up to the skies it loves and longs to reach."

ENCOURAGING PRACTICAL STUDY

A unique enterprise was made known to the world recently when President Smith of the New York Central Railroad visited Harrisburg, Illinois, to present two fine calves to a boy and girl as his contribution toward more efficient dairying in the Middle West. The calves were selected personally in Ohio by Mr. Smith and are pure-bred, registered specimens, from the finest stock obtainable.

The calves were awarded as prizes to the boy and the girl who displayed the best practical knowledge of dairy stock, by winning the most points in a "Juvenile cow-judging contest." The award came as the climax of "Dairy Day" in Harrisburg, a celebration arranged as a part of an organized movement to stimulate interest in dairying, held under the auspices of the Illinois State Food Department. Crowds came from all over the county and from many neighboring counties to witness the ceremony.

HEAT TESTS IN COOKING

An oven is hot enough for cake if it will brown flour in five minutes, or if the hand can be held in the oven while counting 20 slowly.

For frying, if the article is uncooked—doughnuts, for example—the fat should be hot enough to brown a bit of bread in 40 seconds. If the article is cooked—croquettes, and so on—the fat should be hot enough to brown bread in 20 seconds.

SMITHSONIAN EXPLORATIONS

The Smithsonian Institution has issued a report on its explorations and field work carried on by parties in ten foreign countries, and in twenty-two states of the Union. Among the most interesting of the explorations were those carried on by Arthur Sowerby in China and Manchuria. He reports some squirrels of a new species like chipmunks, but having a thick, soft and much more grayish fur, and no cheek pouches. They live in holes in oak trees and are very active, taking enormous leaps from one tree to another.

In southern Shensi, Mr. Sowerby secured an enormous bull "takin," a large goatlike animal peculiar to that region, and a female specimen of the rare Chinese musk deer.

The largest mammoth tusks ever unearthed have been found at Silver Creek, British Columbia, just across the boundary from Alaska.

THE CARE OF CATS

In order to afford free access to and from a room or house for a cat, it is a good plan to provide a hole in a window, door or wall and cover it with a cloth suspended from the top to keep out flies as well as to stop drafts; if a cat is put through this hole a few times it will learn to find its way through it at will.

Plenty of water should be always accessible for cats; in fact, this is one of the first and greatest requirements of all domestic animals, especially in the hot summer months, says Our Dumb Animals.

A cat's coat of fur may be kept shiny and handsome by brushing it with an old clothesbrush kept for the purpose. The cat becomes very fond of this brushing if it is not done roughly; it is a "modern improvement" that beats a cat's tongue "all hollow" for making the fur smooth and glossy.

The lost and forsaken cats whom we constantly come across present the greatest difficulty. Our own cats we feel we can do our duty by, but what about these others?

When leaving home in the summer do not forget to make some provision for your cat. Either take her with you, or find a neighbor or friend who will take care of her for you . . .

The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals publishes several leaflets on the care of cats. Copies will be sent to any address upon request, if stamp is inclosed.

RARE BIRDS ATTRACTED

Herbert K. Job, of the department of applied ornithology of the National Association of Audubon Societies, discovered some time ago a Wilson petrel flying along the coast of Louisiana. This is the first time such a bird has been seen in that locality, so far as known. It is taken as an instance of the attractive power of the new game reserves, which have been established by the United States government.

VIENNESE CARROTS

Scrape one bunch of carrots, cut in small pieces, and boil until tender in boiling salted water. Blend two tablespoons of lard and one tablespoon of flour together in a saucepan over the fire, stir in one cup of the water in which the carrots were cooked, boil five minutes; then add a half teaspoon of sugar, two tablespoons of vinegar, one tablespoon of chopped parsley, one cup of cooked peas, and the carrots. Simmer 10 minutes and serve hot in a vegetable dish.

TO SET COLORS BEFORE WASHING

It pays to set colors before washing colored materials. For blue, use half a cup of vinegar and one tablespoon of alum to a pail of water. Lavenders may be set with a tablespoon of sugar of lead. Pinks and blacks may be set with salt, two cups to a pail of water; soak several hours before washing.

CHINTZ HOODS FOR CHAIRS

The dining-room chairs, with their wood or wood-and-cane backs, may be made much cooler and more comfortable in summer by equipping them with hoods or caps of chintz or some other fabric in a color to harmonize with the room. The hood should fit down over the chair back as far as the place where the shoulders rest against it. In a little luncheon room in New York, the wooden chairs have hoods of black-and-white striped material on which a cockatoo in gay colors has been appliqued. It looks bright and summery and prevents the chair from sticking uncomfortably. All chairs except those of wicker would be rendered much pleasanter for summer use if fitted with these hoods.

IN BLUE AND GOLD

The blue sea slumbers in a mist of heat
Beside the amber shore,
At anchor floats a brown-winged fisher fleet
With idle sail and oar.

The pointed stooks against a purple sky
Give back the sunset gold—
I hear the wheeling swallows call and cry,
I watch the day grow old.

A GLOSSARY OF COOKERY

The modern cook-book contains many phrases which are unfamiliar to the English-speaking housekeeper who has not studied other languages, and, unless she is acquainted through much usage with the meaning of the terms, she may be quite at sea as to their significance. Even phrases which she does comprehend often leave her ignorant of their source or the actual translation of the words. Here are a few of the best-known and most frequently used terms met with in the average recipe:

A la creme—With cream sauce or white sauce.

Au gratin—A scalloped dish, in which cheese is generally used.

Au naturel—According to nature. Blanc mange—White food, literally.

Blanquettes—A white fricassee.

Canape—A sandwich, small and highly flavored, and used as an appetizer. It is usually served with an under crust (slice of bread or toast or wafer) only.

Casserole—An earthen baking dish.

CROUTONS—Literally, crusts. Small squares of toast.

Espagnole—A Spanish sauce.

Farcie—Stuffed.

Fondue—A dish made of cheese and eggs.

Fanchonettes—Small pies with meringue.

Hollandaise—Dutch white sauce with egg-yolks and lemon.

Knöfli—Tiny dumplings of flour.

Krummel Torta—Crumb tart.

Lyonnaise—A sauted dish, seasoned with onions and parsley.

Maitre d'Hotel—Literally, master of the hotel. By the head steward.

Mayonnaise—A sauce originated in the French province of Mayonne.

Meringue—A frosting of beaten white of egg and sugar.

Mousse—A froth.

Parfait—Perfect. A frozen whipped cream mixture.

Pfeffer Nuesse—Pepper nuts.

Puree—A soup thick with the mashed pulp of the article used.

Ragout—A highly seasoned meat stew.

Ramekins—Individual baking dishes.

Souffle—Lightened with air.

Tartare—Sharp.

Timbales—Cup-shaped.

QUIET HOURS FOR CHILDREN

During the vacation days when there is no school to keep them busy for many hours a day, children often do not know quite what to do with themselves after the usual games have been exhausted. The wise mother will lay in a supply of emergency occupations for such times as this. A group of children who had been restlessly wandering about wondering what to do next, were recently kept quiet all through a warm afternoon by a little set of cotton doilies, stamped with a simple design to be worked with colored cotton. The doilies cost a penny apiece and showed such patterns as a bunny rabbit, Red Riding Hood, a bluebird and a kewpie. A doily could be finished in two or three hours done in simple outline stitch and the task was welcomed by complete and happy absorption. Pipes for soap bubbles, a box of paints and other quiet hour toys often forgotten in the summer when the children are expected to play out of doors most of the time will fill in many an hour when there is a cry of nothing to do.

SUB UMBRA

When I half close in silences of night
The much-imaging eyes that still desire
Landscapes for ever green, skies ever clear,
I see you once again, retreat unknown,
Where in an arch the sacred olives stretched,
Rustling in undertones, their ashy boughs.

There on a carpet of green grasses, starred
With corn-chrysanthemums and daisies white,
Fell like a shower, in tremulous flakes of gold,

And lighted up with unexpected fire
The unstable wings of fireflies, and the sheen
Of emerald insects buzzing in the flowers.

Fell like a shower, in tremulous flakes of gold,
The sunlight through the boughs, and seemed to be
Songs of cicadas flaming through the air . . .

And the green grass, protected by the boughs,
The gold chrysanthemums, and daisies white,
Astonished, heard the unfamiliar song.

—Luigi Capuana (Tr. from the Italian by G. A. Greene.)

WAIT TO BE SURE

Never make up your mind in a hurry that someone meant to treat you unkindly. Wait to be sure. Wait till you have the very plainest proof. Often when we think people meant to be unkind, we are quite mistaken. We make much unhappiness for ourselves by being too given to take unkindness for granted.

ABOUT POLITENESS

"I am the politest man in the world," avers Heine in his "Italy." "I am happy in the reflection that I have never been rude in this life, where there are so many intolerable scamps who take you by the button and draw out their grievances, or even declaim their poems—yes, with true Christian patience have I ever listened to their miseries without betraying by a glance the intensity of ennui and boredom."

"But the wisdom of daily life enjoins politeness and forbids a vexed silence or a vexatious reply, even when some chuckleheaded 'commercial councilor' or . . . cheesemonster makes a set at us, beginning a conversation common to all Europe with the words 'Fine weather today.' No one knows but that we may meet the same Philistine again when he may wreak bitter vengeance on us for not politely replying 'It is very fine weather.' Nay, it may even happen, dear reader, that thou mayest, some fine day, come to sit by the Philistine aforesaid in the inn at Cassel, and at the table de'hote, even by his left side, when he is exactly the very man who has the dish with a jolly brown carp in it, which he is merrily dividing among the many. If he now chance to have some ancient grudge against thee, he pushes away the dish to the right, so that thou gettest not the smallest bit of tail, and therewith cannot eat at all. For, alas! thou are just the thirteenth at table, which is always an unlucky thing when thou sittest at the left hand of the carver and the dish goes round to the right. And to get no carp is a great evil—perhaps next to the loss of the national cockade, the greatest of all. The Philistine who has prepared this evil now mocks thee with a heavy grin, offering thee the
